

Campaign launched to name facility after killed teen

SPORTS HALL CALL TO HONOUR JOEL

Report by Heather Large

A BLACK Country sports hall could be named in honour of 19-year-old Tunisia terror attack victim and football referee, Joel Richards.

It follows a scheme being put forward for the facility at the new £8.1 million Wednesbury Leisure Centre to be dedicated to the Saddlers fan who was killed alongside his uncle and grandfather, on June 26.

Joel Richards

to place three permanent memorials at the ground.

Joel was a keen sportsman, playing Gaelic football. He was also a promising referee.

Councillor Costigan said she believed naming the sports hall in his honour would be a fitting tribute.

She has already received his mother Suzanne's approval and the proposal has now been put forward to Sandwell Leisure Trust which will run the leisure centre in High Blythe when it opens next month.

Councillor Costigan said: "I've put the proposal forward so we will have to see what they say but I can't see anyone objecting to it. I've spoken to Joel's mother Suzy and she said she thought it would be a wonderful tribute.

"Joel was very sporty so it seems very fitting to find a sports-related way of honouring him."

Former Stuart Bathurst Catholic High School pupil Joel, his uncle Adrian, 49, who worked at Sandwell Council and lived in Bilston, and his grandfather Patrick, 78 of Wednesbury, lost their lives in the attack in Sousse.

Joel's 16-year-old brother Owen was the only survivor of the family trip. On Sunday a football match was held in their honour at Pelsall Villa, with Walsall FC Legends beating Neil Baldwin FC 6-3.

IT was a day of family fun as hundreds of people turned out for the Bloxwich Carnival.

The Flynn Ryan Motorcycle Stunt Show, the Rockwood Dog Display Team and a martial arts demonstration were among the features at the event, which attracted 5,000 people. There was also a puppet show, face painting and around 40 stalls.

Shaun Fitzpatrick, chairman of the carnival committee, said there had been a record turnout. Teenager Charlotte Locke was officially crowned the 2015 carnival queen on the day.

The 16-year-old from The Butts in Walsall, who is due to study media make-up at Walsall College, said: "I did a pageant in January and I really enjoyed it. The pageant was really large scale so I wanted to do something local and something that means a lot to me."

Charlotte added she was looking forward to the monthly carnival meetings and helping out with as many events and charities as possible. Alexandra Pearce, aged 12, from Willenhall was crowned this year's carnival princess and nine-year-old Lula Leonard from Bloxwich was the rosebud. Outgoing carnival queen Lucy Shepherd, a 19-year-old sales assistant from Bloxwich said the past year had been 'amazing'. "I've joined the carnival committee just to be part of the community and I enjoy helping out." And asked if she had any advice for the incoming carnival queen she added: "Just enjoy it."

Pub to open doors for EDL on march

A PUB has agreed to host EDL members before they take part in a controversial protest this month.

The Oak Inn, on Green Street, will open its doors on August 15 for two hours ahead of the march.

More than 400 EDL protesters intend to join in the protest on the streets of Walsall.

Chief Inspector Martin Hurcomb, Walsall's local policing manager, said: "The licensee of the Oak Inn has agreed to host EDL protesters on the day of the planned protest in Walsall."

"West Midlands Police do not have any powers to stop any group drinking alcohol pre-protest but having one such venue makes absolute sense."

"We are grateful to the Oak Inn for opening their doors to the group."

The protesters claim the town has a child exploitation problem, although police have said those claims are 'simply untrue'.

The far-right group also assert there are areas in the town where non-Muslims are not allowed to go.

Ahead of the EDL's protest in Dudley in February, police organised for a night-club to open early before the march.

Blind Date bride says farewell to star Cilla

A WALSALL woman who became the first Blind Date bride has led the tributes to Cilla Black, who died on Sunday aged 72.

The popular entertainer, famous for presenting several hit shows including Surprise Surprise, died at her home in Spain.

Sue Middleton, of Pelsall, married Alex Tatham three years after appearing as Blind Date contestants in 1988, getting together despite living in different parts of the country.

Thousands of people turned out to see Cilla when she attended the couple's wedding three years later at St Michael and All Angels Church on the edge of Pelsall Common.

Mrs Middleton, aged 49, said: "I was so shocked to hear Cilla had died."

"She changed our lives forever. It was a joy to meet her and I came away with a husband which was an added bonus," she said.

Staff pitch in to help cancer charity

WORKERS Homeserve and a Walsall Council raised vital funds for a cancer charity through a football match.

Homeserve United, made up of employees from the home assistance company's HQ, took on competitors from the council for Marie Curie.

More than 100 spectators joined the fun at Rushall Olympic Football Club, which kindly donated the pitch and facilities for the match, to watch Homeserve United with a 1-0 victory.

The match raised more than £500 for the charity. John Greaves, director of corporate affairs at Homeserve, said:

"We love being part of the Walsall community and it's great to see a team from another of the town's leading organisations, Walsall Council, join forces with us to raise funds for Marie Curie, who we've supported as our national charity partner for a number of years.

"Both teams showed fantastic spirit and it was brilliant to see so many spectators come along to watch the match and help us raise over £500 for Marie Curie."

Homeserve United's logistics manager, James Lingard said: "We play regularly as a team but we wanted to do something special to raise funds for Marie Curie.

"My brother works at Walsall Council and plays for their team, so I got chatting to him about it and we came up with the idea. We are so pleased it was a success. The sun shone and we received great support from the local community, raising a fantastic amount for the charity too."

Marie Curie provides care and support to more than 40,000 people living with terminal illnesses out in the community or in one of its nine hospices.

Tragedy of mother sets off a safety campaign

A CAMPAIGN is under way to improve safety on a busy road where a young mother was killed and her sister seriously injured in a crash.

More than 100 people pledged to back the campaign to make improvements on the A34 Walsall Road, in Great Barr.

People want an end to illegal U-turns and other dangerous manoeuvres taking place at the Tower Hill junction near shops, a pub and restaurant.

It comes after Sarah Child, aged 26, was killed and her sister Claire seriously injured after being struck by a car at the junction.

The driver, Amirul Islam, from Lozells, in Birmingham, was jailed for four years in 2013 after pleading guilty to causing death by dangerous driving.

Claire suffered nerve damage in her right leg as a result of the impact and was unable to walk on her own for two weeks.

Claire was unable to return to her sales job at a plumbing products supplier, where her sisters Sarah and Hannah also used to work.

Father-of-two Richard Evans, of Carmodale Avenue, has set up a Facebook campaign which has received more than 100 likes. The 31-year-old teaching assistant, said: "It is so dangerous and you hate to think what could happen."

"We don't want another tragic crash."

He said talks with Birmingham City Council were progressing well. A consultation is due to get under way over lowering the speed limit on the road through the Tower Hill area.

Work to transform Bell Inn reaches first phase

Call to cut problem down to size

IT looks more like a jungle than a field – yet not long ago it was an open park frequently used by dog walkers.

The vegetation is so overgrown at Ross Farm in Goscote, known locally as Swannies Field, it is now tall enough to cover a child.

The field was one of the sites which fell victim to Walsall Council's cutbacks in grass cutting earlier this year, saving up to £43,000.

Despite the now-ruling Tory party agreeing to reinstate a fortnightly grass service earlier this summer after a barrage of complaints – no action has taken place at the site in Goscote.

It means an area of Swannies Field has grown to up to four feet high and the majority of the rest at around one foot.

Blakenall ward councillor Pete Smith said he has been informed it could take several weeks until cutting is carried out.

He said: "Some of it that needs cutting is four foot high.

"It is like a jungle, it lends itself for people fly-tipping as things can be chucked and be out of sight.

"If a dog goes in there it will be out of sight. It is an absolute disgrace.

"It will take some cutting because it has been left for so long.

"Swannies is a mess and an eyesore. The other side of the canal The Lea looks really good and has been looked after."

He added, although he applauded the decision by the Tory-run council to reverse Labour's cuts to grass cutting, it was taking too long.

The authority had previously warned it would take between four and six weeks to reinstate the fortnightly service.

WORK to transform one of the oldest pubs in the Black Country into a cafe and community centre has reached a major milestone, with the first phase now complete after months of delays.

The scheme to bring the Grade II-listed Bell Inn, in Market Place, Willenhall, back into use has been in the pipeline for years but work has suffered delays due to manufacturing and structural issues.

But developers have now announced the first phase in its renovation – making the building wind and water-tight – is complete and are now trying to secure financing for the next stage.

Roof and window repairs and replacement of the existing shop front with a more traditional design based on evidence provided from historic photos has now been completed. Further phases will bring the ground floor and the oldest part of the building into use as tea rooms or a micro brewery and community facilities.

To mark the occasion, Walsall's Mayor, Councillor Angela Underhill cut a ribbon at the site and civic dignitaries and other key figures involved in the project joined in the celebrations.

A consortium of Willenhall residents formed The Bell Group and bought the pub at auction in 2010.

The group recognised the historic value of the building to the town and wanted to halt its deterioration and bring it back into use for the community.

Rupy Pandaal, a member of the consortium, said: "We have had some real challenges in bringing this all together and we are delighted that our efforts over the past three years have finally seen phase one come to fruition. The Bell Inn is an iconic landmark in Willenhall having immense historic significance for the town. We are grateful for the encouragement we've had from the community and the council."

Wendy Evans, another of the partners, said: "It is great news at long last that we have brought the building back into use again and we plan to embark on phase two as quickly as possible." The iconic building, which has been a pub since 1660, includes oak beams in a former hay loft which date back to the 1580s.

Walk for Rosie pulls in £9,500

AN annual charity walk in memory of a young girl stabbed to death in Birmingham 14 years ago has raised £9,500 so far this year.

Rosie's Walk was held at Aldridge Airport in Bostly Lane for Rosie's Helping Hands charity earlier this month.

Around 400 people took part in either the three-mile or one-mile walk this year.

The event has already raised £9,500 with sponsorship money still coming in.

The charity is dedicated to the life of Rosie Ross, who was killed in 2001 aged 16.

Rosie's Walk is the largest fundraising event organised by the charity and was set up by Rosie's parents Karen and Sean Ross in 2002.

Blaze started in fan at steel centre

TATA Steel had to be evacuated after a fire broke out.

Firefighters said the blaze at the Wednesfield steel factory was sparked in an extractor fan. Fire crews were called to The Steelpark and took around an hour to deal with the incident.

In demand HomeServe takes on 75 extra staff

WALSALL-BASED emergency response firm HomeServe has taken on more than 75 staff following a recruitment drive.

The company needed trainees, skilled tradesmen and call centre staff to cope with growing customer numbers. The firm opened its doors to more than 260 prospective candidates at a recruitment event.

HomeServe spokeswoman Stella Pitt said: "We have since recruited over 75 new colleagues into our business and are continuing to recruit for vacancies within our customer service and sales teams to start in autumn."

"We are looking for people who want to deliver an excellent customer experience, regardless of their work background. As a result, we have seen a diverse range of applicants from different business sectors, which all adds to the unique culture we are so proud of at HomeServe."

Richard Harpin, the company's founder who has become a multi-millionaire thanks to the success of HomeServe, had hailed its strong performance over the last year.

The firm provides insurance cover and household repairs for broken pipes, defective boilers and faulty electrics.

HomeServe employs more than 1,200 people at its Green Lane base.

Staff numbers have recovered since hundreds of jobs were lost during the mis-selling crisis in 2011 that resulted in a £30 million fine imposed by the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) last year.

It is run by Dudley and Walsall Mental Health Partnership NHS Trust and over-18s from across Dudley and Walsall boroughs are urged to take part.

The two winners will receive £100 in vouchers, along with the opportunity for their work to be displayed long-term in a public building in either Dudley or Walsall.

Delays after car and lorry collide

AN HGV and car were involved in a crash on the M6 which saw one lane closed and rush-hour delays. The accident happened on the southbound side near junction 10 for Walsall at around 4.10pm last Wednesday.

Town's past brought to life in display

Francesca Cox with a Bayard's Colt

FROM the lives of Walsall's well known sons and daughters to the mysterious Bayard's Colts, a new exhibition is bringing hundreds of years of the town's history back to life.

The Changing Face of Walsall exhibition has a new home, at Walsall Leather Museum, allowing people to come face to face with the area's rich heritage. It comes after Walsall Museum, in Lichfield Street, was closed, with exhibitions being moved to the Leather Museum, in Littleton Street.

Assistant Curator Francesca Cox said: "This is celebration of Walsall's history. It covers the story of Walsall's people, and it reflects their achievements and amazing skills.

"We've got a lot of local traditions here, some going back to the Middle Ages. Walsall people have made some very amazing things. There was a long list of Walsall firsts, including stainless steel.

"The fact that these things have gone worldwide proves that Walsall products have been some of the best in the world."

As well as industrial relics from Walsall's past, the exhibition includes clothing of the 1930s from Willenhall's Hodson Shop, and special displays commemorate the lives of Sister Dora, Seaman Carless VC and Walsall-born author Jerome K Jerome.

Visitors will also get a chance to see the five of the 17 mysterious Bayard's Colts.

The long clubs with carved heads or weapons at the top were carried as part of the mayoral procession for the opening of markets and fairs, and could date back to the 16th Century.

The exhibition is on display until October 31. Admission is free.

Bull terrier dog that bit dancers to be put down

A STAFFORDSHIRE bull terrier which attacked and injured two Morris dancers during an event in Walsall town centre will be put down - while its owner has been spared jail.

Matthew Spooner, who was given a suspended sentence, was also banned from owning a dog for at least seven years.

Amanda Wearing and Geraldine Cale, who are members of the Glorishers of Brumagem, were dancing at the annual Walking the Fair procession on April 24, when the dog slipped its lead and went after them outside St. Paul's Street.

Mrs Cale suffered a bruise and two puncture wounds while Mrs Wearing had to have three stitches in her ankle after sustaining a cut.

Spooner had pleaded guilty to two counts of owning a dog dangerously out of control causing injury. During a hearing at Walsall Magistrates Court, District Judge Michael Morris ordered that the dog Tia should be destroyed in the interest of public safety.

Spooner, who also admitting to shoplifting from two shops while he was on bail for dangerous dog charges, was given an 18-week prison sentence suspended for 12 months on Friday.

Affect

The case had been held up for several weeks after Spooner claimed he had given away the dog and police had actually seized its sister, which officers discovered.

Adam Muhammed, defending, said Spooner required treatment for medical issues and a previous drug problem as well as arguing that imprisonment would affect his four children.

The solicitor added that his client had been 'getting his life together' and was someone 'worth taking a risk on'.

Judge Morris agreed that Spooner would be better off receiving help from the probation service rather than being in prison and ordered him to attend a 40-day rehabilitation programme.

Father-of-four Spooner, aged 35 from Burrows Street, was also ordered to pay £500 in compensation to the victims, an £80 victim surcharge, £85 prosecution costs, £150 criminal court charges and £140 to replace items he shoplifted on July 6. That day he stole £120 worth of clothes from TK Maxx and two action figures worth £20 from Smyths Toys, both based at Crown Wharf.

Lara Clarke with her cake bust of actor Daniel Radcliffe as the boy wizard Harry Potter, made to mark JK Rowling's 50th birthday

Wizard creation to mark birthday

BROWNHILLS baker Lara Clarke doesn't need a wand to perform magic just a few ingredients and a bag of icing sugar. The cook's latest spellbinding creation is a lifesize bust of actor Daniel Radcliffe as Harry Potter.

Her chocolate confection celebrated author JK Rowling's 50th birthday, which was on July 31, the same as the eponymous hero of her books, and is part of a bigger cake project by a worldwide collaboration of food artists.

She watched DVDs of the Harry Potter films for inspiration and her sugar artwork took 10 hours to complete. The Brownhills baker was catapulted into the limelight two years ago when her 5ft 5in captain Jack Sparrow replica won gold at the NEC's top Cake International Show in Birmingham.

Her latest project was launched online by the Birthday Mischief Managed collaboration which boasts some of the world's most esteemed food artists. The 29-year-old was invited to take part on the strength of her headline-grabbing creations, all made at home in Hussey Road.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Patient falling numbers on rise

THE number of patients suffering falls in Walsall has been higher than expected in the last year, prompting improvement action.

Walsall Healthcare NHS Trust revealed there were 729 patients treated for falls during 2014/15, above the target of no more than 652.

A range of improvements have taken place including new care plans, further staff training and more prevention aids.

As part of its annual plan the trust said: "During 2015/16 we will be maintaining our focus on falls reduction."

Inquest opens on father's drowning

AN inquest has opened into the death of a father from Walsall who died in Cumbria while trying to save his young daughter.

His seven-year-old daughter Delilah survived thanks to off-duty firefighter Geoff Maxwell, who heard the family screaming for help, while working on a house nearby.

The inquest, which was opened at the Coroner's Court in Cockermouth, was adjourned until November 24.

Close down date for Marks clearance store

MARKS & Spencer will close its Walsall clearance store next month, bosses have announced.

The outlet, in the Boundary Mill store at Bentley Mill Way, will close on September 26. The 21staff will be offered positions at nearby stores.

Animals cause cash

£540,000 floodlit hockey facility

A NEW £540,000 floodlit hockey pitch will open this month to sports clubs and residents in Sandwell, Walsall and Birmingham.

It has been created at the Aston University Recreation Centre in Birmingham Road and will be home to Aldridge and Walsall Hockey Club, West Bromwich Hockey Club, Rushall Olympic Football Club and F.C. Premier.

As well as Aston University students, the new facility will also be available for hire by schools and colleges and for recreational users.

Drug use rife in alleyway, claim

REISIDENTS claim an alleyway in Walsall has become a no-go area after being used as a haunt for prostitutes and drug users.

Concerns have been raised about activities at the footpath between Wednesbury Road and Corporation Street West.

Palfrey councillor Allah Ditta is leading calls for gates to be installed and locked at each end at nights. The matter is being raised through the council.

Resident Matloob Hussain said the problem was getting worse each day.

Close pubs call over EDL march

THE police are being urged to use powers to shut pubs when an EDL march is held in Walsall next month.

Around 400 EDL protesters are expected to take part in a demonstration in Walsall town centre on August 15.

Councillor Sean Coughlan said powers were available to the police to close premises if there is a likelihood of disorder. He said: "For the protection of the public and police officers I think we should look at closing pubs in the town centre."

Major blaze at unit is confirmed as arson

A blaze that gutted an industrial unit in Walsall has been confirmed as arson.

West Midlands Police has now launched an investigation into the blaze which happened in Willenhall Lane, Bloxwich, last week.

Flames leapt 40ft into the air from the single-storey business when the first crews arrived at Die Cutting Fomes at around 2.40am.

Anyone with information can call 101.

Busy road to shut

WATER works repairs will cause month long roadworks on a busy road in Aldridge. South Staffordshire Water will start work on the B4154 Bosty Lane, between the junctions of Mid-dlemore Lane West and Park Road on August 12. The work is expected to take until September 6 to finish.

Facebook drugs seller behind bars

A MAN who saw class A drugs thrown from a car being chased by police later tried to sell them over Facebook, a court heard.

Paul Mciver even put a image of himself holding the bag of ecstasy tablets on the website and posted '£5 each in Walsall'. He later admitted possessing 50 of the tablets and a small amount of cocaine.

During a sentence hearing at Wolverhampton Crown Court, prosecutor Robert Cowley said he could not be sure Mciver, of Littlewood Lane, Ches-lyn Hay, had sold any of the drugs.

Officers were first alerted to the drugs after Mciver, aged 28, contacted police on October 4 last year asking for help in retrieving personal items he had left at a house.

Mciver told police after reacting badly to drugs he had consumed at the property he had been forced to 'escape' after others there had refused to call an ambulance. Mr Cowley said after being treated at hospital Mciver returned to collect £65 he had left under a mattress, only to be confronted by a man with a knife.

It was then he contacted the police, who attended the house and next to the money found a bag containing 50 ecstasy tablets, worth around £250, and just under 0.3 grams of cocaine, worth £20.

The owner of the home then showed police the comments Mciver had made on Facebook in which he explained he had witnessed drugs being thrown from a car being chased along Birmingham New Road in Wolverhampton.

Oliver Woolhouse, defending, said: "It was my client's call to the police to help him get his money which led them to find the drugs and led them to examine his phone and what was on Facebook. It is clear the offence was born out of naivety. The drugs literally fell in his lap." Recorder Nigel Baker QC sentenced Mciver to a total of 30 months for two counts of possessing class A drugs.

Couple's memories of 'fairy godmother' Cilla

THE first couple to wed after appearing on Cilla Black's Blind Date have paid tribute to the showbiz legend who died on Sunday – fondly calling her their 'fairy godmother'.

Sue Middleton married Alex Tatham in Walsall in 1991 after the pair met on the hit TV show three years earlier.

The couple joined the many fans and show-biz stars paying tribute to the 1960s pop star turned television presenter who died suddenly at her home in Estepona on the Costa del Sol yesterday, aged 72.

The couple, who appeared on the hit show in 1988, said their 'wonderful' life together would not have happened without Cilla.

"We were absolutely devastated to hear Cilla had died," said Mr Tatham. "It is absolutely awful. She was such a lovely lady and a fairy godmother to us. I really cannot believe it.

"Even recently I used to see her now and then and she was always so nice and so pleased to see us and delighted that we were still happily married."

Cilla, born in Liverpool as Priscilla Maria Veronica White, became one of the nation's favourite entertainers after transforming herself from a successful singer in the 1960s to the front woman on shows such as Blind Date and Surprise! Surprise!

An associate of The Beatles and their manager Brian Epstein in the early 1960s, she scored two number ones in 1964 – Anyone Who Had A Heart and You're My World – as well as enjoying many other hits, before going on to concentrate on TV.

She went on to host more than 500 editions of her programmes and was the first woman to have her own primetime chat show on BBC1.

Mr Tatham has fond memories of meeting the TV star for the first time.

He said: "I was 23 when I appeared on Blind Date. I remember she would put the boys firmly in their place and was perhaps a little more supportive of the girls and made sure that they stuck up for themselves.

"Ultimately she made the show fun to be on and was keen too to see everyone in the green room after filming had finished.

"She wanted to hear how people were getting on and was genuinely happy when the couples made it work."

After hitting it off on the show Mr Tatham, 50, and Mrs Middleton, 49, married in October 1991 at St Michael and All Angels Church, Pelsall. Mrs Middleton's family still live in the Walsall area. Cilla turned up in her famous floppy hat, and police had to put up crash barriers to cope with the 3,000 well-wishers who turned out. Mr Tatham added: "She made the effort to say some lovely things to us. She was remarkable. I think she was just so happy that Blind Date had created a fairytale.

"The fact is it did create one. We have been married 24 years and we have got two lovely children. We have had an absolutely wonderful life and that would not have happened without her. " The vicar for the wedding was Rev David Mawson. He too spoke fondly of Cilla.

He said: "She was a Liverpudlian character who became a national treasure - a real pro.

"The wedding was the big event in the life of the parish and Cilla's team put everything they had into making it a great day for Alex and Sue."

After tying the knot the couple moved to London but would still see Cilla at the Henley Festival where she continued to take an interest in their relationship.

Cilla – who suffered from hearing problems and arthritis – died on Sunday after flying to Spain with her son Robert.

New nurses at hospital drafted in from Italy

ITALIAN nurses have been taken on at Walsall Manor Hospital following a new recruitment drive – with all new staff due to be in place in September.

Walsall Healthcare NHS Trust revealed earlier this year it would look overseas to recruit registered nurses in a £3.5 million investment plan.

It has now been confirmed that 30 have been recruited from Italy, along with 50 from within the UK.

A further 21 midwives have also been brought in as the trust looks to cut down the amount of money spent on temporary workers.

A report from director of nursing Kathryn Halford to the trust board said: "As a result of the investment in nursing and midwifery agreed by the board, 30 ward nurses and 21 midwives have been recruited from Italy to supplement the 50 nurses recruited from the UK.

"These numbers will ensure that all posts in the wards will be filled by the end of September.

"The first three Italian nurses have already started in the wards."

The hospital also agreed to the recruitment of 35 care support workers in a bid to boost numbers of staff.

It is the first time the trust has looked abroad to get in workers in a decade.

The recruitment of new nurses will help bosses to reduce the amount spent on bank, locum and agency workers which has regularly hit £1.5m a month.

Overall, it came to around £20m in 2014/15.

Housing staff get spades out

STAFF from Walsall Housing Group swapped their screens for spades as part of a community project.

The 19-strong team from the group's business improvement and communications teams spent eight hours building two raised beds and two planters from scratch at Goscote Greenacres.

A total of 40 railway sleepers, 12 tons of soil and muscle power was used to create additional space to grow flowers, vegetables and fruit.

The housing association also contributed £775 towards funding the purchase of the materials.

Kieran Larkin, director of business excellence at the housing group, said:
"It was a great day and we all enjoyed working together."

Two injured as car overturns

TWO people were taken to hospital after a car overturned following a crash in Bloxwich. Emergency services were called to the scene in Elmore Green Road just before 4.30pm on Saturday.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Brian
Stanley feels that it's all about service. "Our product is simple.
If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole."

Cloudy2Clear service
Wolverhampton and the surrounding area and Brian is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense.

I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people

I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated."

Pubs losing out as big companies set up shop

WHEN John Pickup saved his local pub near Bridgnorth, he had a simple rationale for his efforts: "If we didn't do something, we would have ceased to be a village, we would have become just a collection of houses."

Our community pubs are the fabric of British society, the glue that binds our towns and villages together.

And according to the Campaign for Real Ale, pubs in the West Midlands are still closing at the rate of around six a week.

Now I'm not one of those diehards who believe it is a tragedy whenever a pub shuts its doors.

Let's be honest, while we may have lost many excellent pubs over the past 10 year or so, but we have already lost some pretty dreadful ones.

You know the sort I mean, the non-descript boozers, often staffed by a succession of short-term managers, the sort that specialise in stale cobs, bland lager, and an occasional knuckle sandwich just after last orders. Should we really mourn their passing?

But the sad thing is that, as the economy picks up, it is not just the failing pubs which are under threat, but the thriving, popular ones too.

The Seven Stars in Sedgley and the Hasbury Inn in Halesowen are both popular, well-frequented pubs in pleasant, close-knit communities.

They are not at risk of closure because they struggle to pull in the punters, but simply because the sites they occupy are more valuable to the supermarket giants. The battle over the Seven Stars seems to have been rumbling on for years. The local authority refused planning permission, so the Morrison's simply got the decision overturned by Whitehall, just 10 years after being told to relinquish its supermarket in the village centre by the Monopolies Commission.

So much for localism and devolution.

And there will then be tough times indeed for the long-established independent convenience stores in the two neighbouring roads. Look, I'm all for free enterprise, but something isn't working when thriving small businesses are just brushed aside like this.

SHE insists she was just looking after her teeth, but Clare Embleton has now had to have metal plates inserted into her face after chewing gum for seven hours a day wore her jaw out.

Alex Ferguson seems to have got off lightly, doesn't he?

AMERICAN dentist Walter Palmer seems to have united the world in disgust over his cowardly slaughter of Cecil, the much-loved lion on Zimbabwe. Just as well no other barbaric brutality goes on in that country, isn't it?

Vital decision that can transform lives

With numbers falling, JACK AVERTY reports on the importance of leaving a life-changing legacy – donating an organ

"DONATING an organ is the best legacy you can leave behind as in death you will create life for someone else."

That is the view of Brownhills resident Nathan Black who is currently on the 6,000 strong waiting list for a kidney transplant.

Mr Black's emotional statement comes as recent figures revealed that 181 West Midlands residents have died in the past five years waiting for a transplant, whilst the number of organ donors across the UK has fallen for the first time in more than a decade.

The recently released Organ Donation and Transplantation Activity Report 2014/15 also revealed that, when approached, four out of 10 families refuse to give permission for their organs to be donated.

Last year 41 people in the West Midlands benefited from a living donor transplant where donors gave a kidney or part of their liver.

Difficult

Mr Black said: "I think if people were aware of the impact donating an organ would have and the fact it changes the recipient's and their family's lives then more people would donate. When people die the hospitals are faced with asking a really difficult question to families."

Mr Black's mother originally donated a kidney to him, but after three ultrasound scans, a biopsy, an MRI and an angiogram, it was revealed his new kidney was being starved of blood and was dying.

After having that kidney removed, he is currently waiting to receive a second transplant, this time from his best friend Stuart Bentley. After originally being told it could go ahead, he now has to wait to find out if the cysts on Stuart's kidney are dangerous or not.

Nathan Black was first donated a kidney by his mother Adrianne but it was later removed

He said: "They need to make sure they don't take a kidney out that there could be problems with later. It could set us back but we are keeping positive."

Mr Black expects to hear back on the danger of the cysts at the end of this month but he is remaining upbeat about his chances of a successful transplant.

He said: "We are all pretty confident that the cysts are just routine, Stuart is pretty fit and healthy. Once we hear back on the results of the second scan then it goes to the medical board for a decision. If there's no more complications then hopefully I can get my transplant in September."

Last year saw 4,431 organ transplants take place across the UK compared to 4,655 the year before.

This drop of 224, or five per cent, is the first for 11 years. The figures come from the Organ

Donation and Transplantation Activity Report 2014/15 which suggests that the reason for this drop is because of fewer people dying in circumstances where they could donate and that there has been no increase in the rate of people signing up to give consent for their organs to be used if they die.

But the report also states that, in circumstances where a decision to donate was known, 120 families felt unable to honour their loved one's decision to donate, denying them their dying wish to save others after their death.

Jim Walker and his wife Mandy, of Skip Lane, Walsall, lost their daughter Beth Dykes last year to a sudden brain haemorrhage and were faced with the question of whether to donate Beth's organs or not.

However Mr Walker said his daughter, a former Great Barr High School pupil, had made her feelings clear previously that she wished to donate – meaning the tough question was slightly easier to answer at such an emotional time. He said: "The fact that we had this conversation with Beth and we knew her wishes made it slightly easier to make a tough decision when you're in no fit state to make such a decision."

Mr and Mrs Walker now run a website in Beth's memory encouraging people to talk about organ donation. In the wake of these figures Mr Walker encouraged families to have the organ donation discussion.

He said: "The most important thing is people realising they have to discuss organ donation with their family at some point."

"The truth is there's never a good time to have the conversation. At birthdays, Christmas, a family barbecue, the last thing on people's mind is organ donation and that's completely fair enough but it is a conversation families must have sooner rather than later."

"I don't think people realise how many lives they impact by donating their organs. Everyone who receives an organ has a father, mother, auntie, uncle, grandad, grandmother etc, it effects so many people."

Grateful

Sally Johnson, the director of organ donation and transplantation for NHS Blood and Transplants, said: "We are truly grateful to the families of the 1,282 deceased donors and to each of the 1,092 living donors who made transplants possible last year. Their donations allowed more than 4,400 people to get the organ transplant they've been waiting for to save or vastly improve their lives."

"We have always known that because the opportunities to donate are so small, it is essential to increase the number of people who say yes to organ donation."

"We understand that families are expected to consider donation in their darkest hour so we would remind everyone to tell those closest to you now if you want to donate your organs – and then record that decision on the NHS Organ Donor Register. Should the time come, your family will know you want to donate your organs to help to save others."

"The decreases we can see across all types of organ transplant will lead to more deaths if we do not reverse this trend going forward."

Young queen blameless over salute

THE then six or seven-year-old Princess Elizabeth was clearly blameless in giving the Nazi salute. A little girl of that age could have had no understanding of politics. That's really all that needs to be said about the present Queen's part in the family film.

The same cannot be said for the adults in the film, nor for the unidentified amateur cinematographer who recorded the event. In his column, Peter Rhodes leaps on the bandwagon exonerating the royal family with claims that Hitler was as yet an unknown quantity or was perceived as a bulwark against Communism. Nonsense! By 1933, Hitler was well known.

Mein Kampf had been published in two volumes in 1925 and 1926. The Windsors (formerly the Saxe-Coburgs) were probably the family with the highest proportion of fluent German speakers in this country, and could readily find out what was happening in Germany. Hitler had borrowed the 'Roman salute' from his pal Mussolini, whose thuggish regime had been in power since 1922.

A similar party had been in power in Portugal since 1926, and was to prove the longest-lived fascist regime. Nobody in 1933-4 could claim not to have known the nature of fascism.

The film shows the future King Edward VIII teaching the Nazi salute to two innocent children with the active participation of a future queen consort, recorded by an amateur cameraman with access to the royal family at least. It might be instructive to find out which members of the family then had an interest in amateur film-making. It is a deeply disturbing image.

Action on hostility to nurses

WITH regards to the 'Respect Us' campaign launched by the Manor Hospital, I find it a poor response to any of my calls against this.

Surely everyone does not want to see those looking after our nearest and dearest treated in such a way that they resign from their post and work elsewhere - causing staff shortages and a search through Europe for replacements?

The average nurse works a 12 hour or more shift and is exposed to hostile relatives almost every single day whilst others in the health service succumb to suicidal thoughts. When are we going to see some progress?

I am conducting research into how this is affecting nurses and would like to hear from staff and their experiences. They can e-mail me at susiestroud@hotmail.co.uk - all correspondence will be treated confidentially.

Make inspections more stringent

RECENTLY I have been corresponding with the Department of Education over their involvement with the failing Walsall schools and the closure of the engineering college in Bloxwich, opened just three years ago at a cost of £9.5m

The reasons given were difficulties with pupil recruitment and poor academic performance.

The indications are that whether the establishments are local government or national government controlled they can still fail to meet Ofsted's standard requirements.

The question is: What methods are in place to ensure that the candidates for leadership and staff, are competent for the task? From my own experiences, in engineering design and in education, there are those with the required academic capability, but lack the necessary personal characteristics to make their contribution.

In teaching, pupils need to have their confidence in their own abilities encouraged, together with respect for those teaching or working with them. In order to change the existing culture of accepting failing education in Walsall schools, I am asking the Department of Education to be more stringent, and increase the frequency, of inspections.

No peaceful shopping expedition

IT'S hopeful to see that at last Walsall Council is (maybe) going to do something about the ever growing litter problem in the town centre.

I rang them some time ago and was told it was no worse than Sutton Coldfield or anywhere else! Are they blind? On one recent Saturday it was horrendous with rubbish, food containers and carrier bags flying about in the wind. It was thoroughly disgusting.

I hope they don't just deal with dog fouling as that's not the real problem.

The other problem is the people spouting religion, sometimes with loud hailer. They are very aggressive to anyone that complains.

Can't we have any peace from buskers, religious speakers and people accosting us every few yards for money for numerous charities?

What happened to a nice quiet shopping expedition? M NICKLESS

Horse rides to rescue of abandoned puppies

A HELPFUL horse helped to save five puppies from certain death.

The dogs had been abandoned in a cardboard box at Slack Lane Common in Pelsall when Cyrus came to their rescue.

Pub landlady Janine Jeffery was out riding with her friend, Cyrus's owner, on Slack Lane Common.

Mrs Jeffery, who runs the Queens in Norton Road, Pelsall said: "Cyrus started throwing a fit at the sight of a cardboard box lying on the ground."

He would not go past it and caused such a stir that it disturbed something inside the box which started to move.

"We dismounted, checked what it was and found five adorable puppies. They would have died without Cyrus."

"We would have ridden straight past because the was nothing to indicate there was anything inside until the horse kicked off."

Desolate

"We would not have gone past the scene on the way home at the end of our ride."

"It is a desolate spot and it is highly unlikely anybody else would have seen the box before it was too late to save the puppies."

The pups were taken back to the stables of her friend in Brewers Drive and put down in the straw overnight.

Mrs Jeffery and her friend have now found new homes for all the puppies, believed to be terrier crosses.

She explained: "We were overwhelmed with offers after putting out an appeal on Facebook."

She added they would also like to reunite a stray Bichon, which had taken to the puppies, with its previous owner.

Boost for youngsters

CAMPAIGNS to raise cash for children with cerebral palsy have been boosted by a project launched by Walsall College and the town's arts festival.

They have helped to raise more than £2,000 for the appeals aiming to transform the lives of Amber Porterfield and Lillie Scott.

More than £77,000 has been raised for six-year-old Amber, from Pelsall, after her family started an appeal so she could have surgery in America.

The family of Lillie Scott, four, need to raise almost £7,000 for an 'Eye Gaze' computer which will help her communicate in the future.

Business studies students Izabela Dzierzak, Saahil Imran, George Stanton and Sam Lenton, all aged 17, put their business acumen and interpersonal skills into action.

Money was also raised towards Burton youngster Ollie Dods's life-changing surgery. The funds will be split equally between each appeal with each getting more than £660 each.

Dance instructor's fundraising feat

Dance tutor Beverley Harris, who had a kidney transplant around one year ago, completed the London Bridge Walk A DANCE instructor has raised £900 for Kidney Research UK – a year on from having an organ transplant.

Beverley Harris from Willenhall has suffered with renal failure since she was three-years-old and has been in and out of hospital most of her life. She had stones removed from both kidneys as a toddler and then part of one of the organs removed when she was 11.

Aged 18, the tutor, at Steptacular Dance Studio off Spring Lane, was told she had overcome her problems, only for them to recur in her mid-20s. She underwent a transplant at Queen Elizabeth Hospital, Birmingham, on June 25 last year.

Twelve months on, the 45-year-old is fit and healthy again.

On July 12 she completed the seven mile London Bridge Walk around the capital with 1,200 other people.

"I was happy to raise £900 but I think it is more important to raise awareness of kidney disease," she said.

More free alarms as scheme to extend

A COMMUNITY alarm system could be extended to more residents in Walsall to help them remain in their own homes.

Council chiefs scrapped controversial charges earlier this year and are now looking at providing more free alarms to those considered in need.

Those who fit into the criteria would benefit from the alarms, which have been dubbed as a lifeline for some people in the borough.

Walsall Council leader Mike Bird said: "Around 5,500 people currently use the alarm system which enables them to stay in their home with security."

"It will be our intention to assess people's needs from a social care point of view."

Secure

"If we can keep people in their home then we intend to do that. Not only is it cost effective but people should be able to stay in their homes and feel secure."

It comes after the now-ruling Tories agreed to scrap a controversial £150-a-year bill for thousands of pensioners earlier this year. The previous Labour administration had introduced the bill for the first time under budget savings.

By Craig Hughes

But the policy was overturned when the Tories regained power in May.

A total of 5,793 people, most of them over 80, use the pendant service.

Machines are fitted at properties for disabled or frail residents to push a button to call for help.

It is a 24-hour telephone response helpline that helps prevent falls, hospital and care home admissions and assists residents to live independently.

Additional equipment, such as electronic tablet dispensers and gas sensors are also available under the scheme.

Susan Laywood, Irene Peace and Liz Fraser, with councillors Ian Robertson and Ann Young, plus residents

CAMPAIGNERS are celebrating a new bus route which started this week, after a service vital for elderly passengers was axed. The number 19 Arriva bus previously stopped along Forest Lane, near Dartmouth Avenue.

But changes to the weight limit of a bridge from 11 tons to three tons meant buses could no longer gain access. After a 500-strong petition and complaints from locals, Walsall Council took another look at the issue and worked with transport companies to reinstate a previously used route. Deputy leader, Councillor Adrian Andrew, said: "I can see the inconvenience this has caused and I empathise with those residents affected. We have already reviewed the option to permit buses up to 6.5 tons to continue using the bridge but unfortunately this cannot be achieved safely.

"However, I can report on a positive note that council officers have been in detailed discussions with Centro and the bus operator Arriva regarding routing the No 19 onto a previously used route for this service.

"This alternative route will take in Forest Lane, Webster Road, Rutland Street, Beddows Road, Lavender Grove and Dartmouth Close to join up with Dartmouth Avenue."

Blakenall Councillor Ann Young, who had warned about the risks of removing such an important service, said: "I'm very pleased that the concerns of these elderly people have been addressed."

Cannabis plants found by police on burglary trail

POLICE officers discovered 33 cannabis plants in a Black Country home having initially been called to reports of a burglary, a court heard.

Residents in Elmore Green Road, Bloxwich, alerted police to the property on November 6 last year, concerned thieves were attempting to break-in.

Prosecuting Paul Farrow said on arrival officers were allowed inside only to find the cannabis set up in a bedroom.

Samuel Cadman, one of three men inside the home, appeared at Wolverhampton Crown Court to be sentenced after admitting his involvement in the enterprise. The 29-year-old of Thorn Close, Wednesbury, was given a jail term totalling six months, suspended for 12 months. Mr Farrow told the court officers witnessed Cadman, a welder, enter the home using a set of keys and greeted officers when they arrived.

The plants, which were around eight inches tall, were found alongside lighting, equipment and fertiliser. Mr Farrow said the estimated potential yield of the plants was just under 1kg of cannabis, which at its lowest value would sell for around £6,000. All three men were arrested.

During interview Cadman eventually admitted his involvement in the production of cannabis. Defending, Samantha Powis, said her client had played a minor role installing equipment. She added it was an 'isolated incident' from which Cadman was hoping for nothing more than a 'bit of spare cash.'

Recorder Nigel Baker QC handed Cadman a five months suspended sentence for the production of cannabis and added an additional month for the possession of the class B drug MCAT, which was found on Cadman following his arrest. He admitted both charges. Cadman was also ordered to do 200 hours of unpaid community work and to pay £535 prosecution costs.

New chief constable is sought

THE search for the West Midlands' next Chief Constable has officially started, after the Police and Crime Commissioner decided to speed up the recruitment process.

David Jamieson announced on Friday the £185,000-a-year role is now being advertised, having made the decision to accelerate the process following discussions with the public.

The current Chief Constable, Chris Sims, will be retiring early next year after six years in the role.

Mr Jamieson said: "This is an incredibly important time for West Midlands Police and I am keen to make sure that the handover period is as long as possible, between the current Chief Constable and the next."

The Chief Constable will be based in Birmingham and be paid £185,000 plus benefits. Applications will close on August 28, with short listing in early September. Contact www.west-midlands-pcc.gov.uk

Warehouse plan lodged at site of old foundry

A FORMER industrial site which has been standing empty for more than five years could be transformed under new regeneration plans.

Proposals have been lodged for warehouses at the old Ductile Wesson site in Moxley.

The previous foundry shut in 2009 with the loss of 150 jobs.

British Airways Pension Trustees Ltd is poised to breathe new life into the site after plans were lodged with Walsall Council to build two warehouses, three-storey office blocks, car parking and service yards at the site in Bull Lane.

The plans state that the development will increase job opportunities in the area.

Planners at Walsall Council will make a decision in the coming months, but councillors have welcomed the news.

Speculative

Economy and development chief Councillor Adrian Andrew said: "I'm delighted these plans have come in, particularly for that part of the borough. It will bring local jobs as well, even in the construction phase."

The floor area for both buildings amounts to nearly 226,225sq ft, although the scheme has been described as speculative with the likely split of uses currently unknown.

The plans would also create 154 car parking spaces and more than 100 bays for bikes, motorcycles and disabled parking.

A report lodged with the planning application states: "The proposed buildings will increase the range and diversity of employment opportunities."

The site was originally developed in the 1830s as the Albert & Victoria Iron Works which were taken over by W. Wesson in the 1890s. Victoria Ironworks was acquired by William Henry Wesson in 1898. Ultimately this became Ductile Wesson and was owned by Niagara LaSalle (UK) Ltd. The site has been vacant since 2009 when the foundry was closed and in 2011 the former foundry buildings were demolished to ground level.

Leisure centre reaches closing stages

On the site of the new building are Mark Wildman, Sandwell Leisure Trust marketing and business manager, with Councillors Olwen Jones, Elaine Costigan, Peter Hughes, Syeda Khatun and Steve Eling, deputy council leader

CONSTRUCTION of a new £8.1 million leisure centre in Wednesbury is reaching its final stages.

After a fire gutted the remains of the old Wednesbury Leisure Centre sports hall in 2014, proposals for a brand new site needed to be revised.

Initially, the original multi-million pound plan was to build a new swimming pool alongside the old hall, connecting past and present.

However, the scheme's planners were forced into a rethink after the blaze - believed to be arson - gutted the derelict site in High Bullen.

This meant an extra £900,000 had to be earmarked for the new centre, and the process was delayed as the old site needed to be knocked down before construction started from scratch.

Work on the site should be finished in the next month or so, with the opening date for residents drawing ever nearer in October.

Sandwell deputy leader Councillor Steve Eling said: "The sheer amount

The new leisure centre building of equipment will be quite amazing. This is going to be a big place for Wednesbury town and also the surrounding areas.

"It shows the council's commitment to having good quality local facilities - and good quality well-used facilities."

"What we had previously in Wednesbury were two pools and a sports hall. It will still have those, but they're brand new and it will also have a new 100-station fitness suite and dance studio."

Councillor Syeda Khatun, cabinet member for Leisure and the voluntary sector, said: "It's fabulous and is such an opportunity for local people who probably haven't had new buildings and new facilities for many years."

"Sandwell Council's aim is to improve leisure facilities. We've done that in the past couple of years but we have ambitions to do more as well."

According to Councillor Elaine Costigan, Wednesbury residents are looking forward to taking advantage of the new facilities.

She said: "The old building was burned down so badly that they couldn't do anything with it."

"That was why it was demolished and they had to start from the ground up."

"The new centre is really going to be great."

"The feeling I get from people is that they just can't wait for it to be open."

Junior chess club is an award winner

Eunie and Ray Dolan with National Junior Champions Alex Dinoo age six, Krishan Patel, eight, Dylan Rehman, seven,

ATTENTIVE children, caring parents and remembering it's a game – that's what the people behind the new Chess Club of the Year say has made them a success.

Bloxwich Junior Chess Club, based at Rycroft Community Hub in Coalpool, recently celebrated its fifth anniversary, but the biggest surprise was around the corner.

Organisers Ray and Eunie Dolan had no idea they were in the running for the award, given out at a meeting of the North Staffs and District Chess Association earlier this month.

Mr Dolan said: "We're still getting emails and texts a week later.

"You've got all the clubs in Staffordshire in the running, nobody expects a junior club to win.

"Chess is very good for children. It's a game of concentration, of planning, and it's a game of silence, which the parents love."

Mrs Dolan said everyone involved in the club has a great attitude.

"I'm over the moon that the children want to come and that they listen when they get there," she added.

Stations to be improved under new rail scheme

TWO train stations in Walsall could be expanded and improved, under new plans.

Walsall Railway Station will see an increase in its capacity to cope with new services and provide faster links to and from Wolverhampton. Meanwhile, transport authority Centro has revealed a £75,000 scheme to make improvements at Bescot Railway Station.

By Lisa O'Brien

Under the plans, CCTV would be upgraded, lighting improved and improvements to the car park and footpaths made.

Plans drawn up by Walsall Council state that the expansion of the town centre train station would help services to grow and improve in the future.

It comes as work on the Chase Line electrification is under way with the aim of providing a cleaner, greener and more regular service.

The action plan which has been drawn up says it will also bring potential for services to destinations further afield to be introduced.

It states: "Along with improvements to rail services, Walsall train station would also require its capacity to be increased to facilitate new services, as well as accommodate a potential rapid transit service between Walsall and Wolverhampton.

"Direct travel between Walsall town centre and Wolverhampton city centre is limited by public transport to bus travel.

"This journey of 35 minutes could be reduced to 15 minutes by introducing a rapid transit service between the two strategic centres.

"As developments within the town centre are delivered the need to maintain and expand an efficient public transport network is imperative."

A decision on improvements at Bescot Station is due this month.

Reg literally fell for his future bride

Reg and Brenda Madeley from Ashmore Lake Road, Willenhall, celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary

REG Madeley was literally swept off his feet when meeting his teenage sweetheart – and today he is still madly in love with wife Brenda, celebrating 60 years of marriage.

Mr Madeley tripped up some steps and stumbled in front of his future wife after plucking up the courage to ask for a dance at Walsall Town Hall.

Rather than help him up, Mrs Brenda stood and laughed, sparking a bond between the teenagers which saw them court for four years before tying the knot at Walsall Registrar Office in 1955.

Now, the couple live in Ashmore Lake Road, Willenhall. Mr Madeley, aged 80, said: "It might have started a bit stumbly but over 60 years later here we are.

"We were only 15 and 16 at the time but we married four years later. I wouldn't have had it any other way."

Mr Madeley attended Hillary Street School in Walsall before joining the army after his marriage. He later worked as a plumber, an engineer and in a post office.

Mrs Madeley went to RC Thomas School in Bloxwich. She left at 14 and began working in leather factories.

The couple had three children, Stuart, 41, Wayne, 54, and Jan, 58.

Patients benefitting from new Manor unit

A NEW surgical assessment unit at Walsall Manor Hospital is already benefitting patients with reduced waiting times and same day discharges just weeks after it opened, bosses revealed.

Nine trolleys and a waiting area have been created which mean people no longer have to sit in a GP waiting area until a bed becomes available.

By Lisa O'Brien

Patients are now seen and reviewed by a consultant surgeon and discharged home with a planned theatre date and day case emergency surgical cases are able to go to theatre in the morning.

The pilot surgical assessment unit was developed by consultant Steve Odogwu to tackle unnecessary hospital surgical admissions as well as improve the experience of patients.

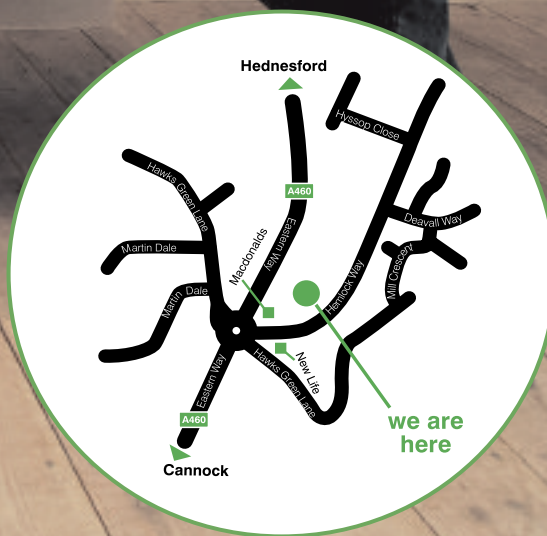

Mr Odogwu, who has been developing the pilot with Sarah Addison, clinical director for general surgery, said early feedback and results were "encouraging". He said: "We shared patients frustration at long waits for beds and wanted to look at a different way of working that would bring about an improvement.

"The progress made so far is encouraging and patients have told us that they are being seen more quickly. Importantly, they also feel that communication around their treatment and care has improved."

Patients using the surgical assessment unit will require surgery for conditions including hernias, gallstones and abscesses.

Miss Addison added: "The unit also provides an emergency clinic which means patients who are clinically fit for discharge can attend this clinic in the days following their surgery for diagnostic and blood investigations."

Saddlers legends are on target in fans' memory

FOOTBALL fans enjoyed an afternoon of sunshine and nine goals as Walsall legends took to the field for a match in memory of three Black Country victims of the Tunisian beach attack.

The game, which was held at Pelsall Villa yesterday, kicked off after a minute's silence as saw the Walsall FC Legends team take on The Neil Baldwin Football Club.

The match was organised through the Walsall Supporters Trust.

It was organised in honour of Joel Richards, aged 19, of Wednesbury, his uncle and Sandwell Council worker Adrian Evans, 49, of Bilston and grandfather Patrick Evans, 78, of Wednesbury.

The Walsall Legends team won the match 6-3 with goalscorers including Tony Millard and David Moli. Former players including Mark Taylor and Andy Reece also joined the team, while Walsall FC player Amadou Bakayoko was in the stands enjoying the match.

Refereeing

Joel's mother Suzanne who was at the match with her son Owen, a survivor of the attack, said: "Joel was all about football, he absolutely loved refereeing, it was his dream job. We just think it's lovely that people are doing this for them, people are so kind."

Steve Davies, secretary of the Walsall Supporters Trust, said: "The legends are great, they turn up every time I organise a game and give their time for nothing. I appreciate the fact that people turned out."

Neil Baldwin rose to national fame following the broadcast of the BBC's BAFTA Award winning programme 'Marvellous' in September 2014, which charted his rise from Circus Clown to Stoke City kitman. He said: "I think it is a great privilege to get a team out today because it is so sad what happened." Joel, his uncle and grandfather were killed in Sousse when the attack took place on June 26.

Money raised from yesterday's event, which also included a raffle, will go towards the fund set up in memory of Joel. Last month, friends of Joel took to the field for a football match in his memory. More than 200 people gathered to watch on the sidelines.

Old classmates and friends who had played in sports teams with Joel over the years took part in the match on July 19.

Early learning helps children to develop

Children's important early start

Youngsters learn through practical play and exploring

Children will get the opportunity to learn, make friends and become more confident

COMMERCIAL FEATURE

FREE early learning – when can your child start?

Did you know that some two-year-olds and all three and four-year-olds are able to have free early learning at a variety of settings across Walsall Borough?

Free early learning can be really beneficial to children.

It can help them develop, learn, make friends, become more confident and most importantly, have fun!

As well as helping them develop now, it can also make a difference to them in the future, as research has shown, children who have a good quality early years education are more likely to achieve higher levels at school.

Some parents worry that their children are too young for childcare or a 'formal' learning.

However they don't get this learning sitting behind desks!

Children will learn through practical play and exploring. What they do at the childcare setting will depend on their interests and likes, so there is lots of variety and every child is treated as an individual.

As well as helping children, free early learning gives parents and carers time to spend with other children, undertake training, work or anything else that they may not normally have time for.

Children can go to day nurseries, childminders, playgroups, schools, so there will be something that suits your family's needs.

Credit

If you have a two-year-old then they might be able to start getting their free early years learning before they turn three.

Meningitis tests call by mother

Charlotte and Stewart Heath with daughter Aimee

A MOTHER whose newborn baby contracted meningitis has backed a campaign calling on the NHS to inform pregnant women about group B Strep and offer them a chance to be tested. Group B Strep is the most common cause of life-threatening infection in newborn babies and of meningitis in babies up to the age of three months, passing from mother to baby around labour and birth.

The Why Guess? campaign, launched by charity Group B Strep Support, wants to stop health professionals having to guess whether a woman is carrying the potentially deadly group B Strep bacteria and start using the group B Strep-specific (ECM) test late in pregnancy. Charlotte Heath, of Cheslyn Hay, is backing the campaign. The 26-year-old's daughter Aimee, who was born in July 2011, is seriously disabled from her GBS infection.

All appeared well until the morning after she was born when Aimee showed signs of distress – high-pitched crying, struggling to feed and jaundice. Aimee had developed group B Strep meningitis. She now has spastic quadriplegia cerebral palsy because of the condition and cannot stand, walk, talk or sit up.

Her mother said: "Had I been tested for GBS and found positive, I could have been offered antibiotics in labour and Aimee's illness and disabilities would have been prevented."

"It would be absolutely amazing if every pregnant woman was offered a test as the costs of a disabled child, or even losing a child, far outweigh the cost of a test." For more information, visit gbss.org.uk/why-guess

Protection urged for frontline NHS staff

HOSPITAL workers in Walsall were attacked more than 150 times a year – but police are not doing enough to protect them, health bosses have claimed.

A serious assault on a nurse at Walsall Manor Hospital on Saturday July 25, by an inpatient is the latest in a series of violent attacks in the last year.

There were 156 incidents involving patients abusing health workers between April 2014 and March this year. Now bosses at Walsall Healthcare NHS Trust have issued scathing criticism of West Midlands Police for a lack of criminal action against offenders.

Board member Nigel Summers CBE, said: "We are being let down by the police in this borough there have been no successful prosecutions. I want the police to explain themselves. These are physical and racial assaults and this is not acceptable."

"This has a degrading effect on an individual if they feel they have to put up with violence or threats. It does affect absence rates."

He added: "The police are letting us down so we should do that job for them and seek private prosecution."

Kathryn Halford, director of nursing, claimed the problems were only getting worse. She said more patients were being issued with yellow card warnings as well as red card orders which ban them from the trust unless it is an emergency.

"There was a nasty assault on a nurse last weekend on one of the wards. The police came and she is going to prosecute. There has been a sea change."

As part of the awareness drive for the Respect Us campaign, A&E worker Tracy Pettifer has told of her experiences.

The 49-year-old from Bloxwich has been physically attacked twice in her 28-year career.

The first incident happened eight years ago when she was grabbed by the hair and punched. She said: "He fractured my cheekbone and my eye swelled up so that I looked like I'd been in a boxing match."

Film footage of old brings region to life

A COLLECTION of historic films released online offers a fascinating insight into the Black Country's heritage.

The project reveals hidden histories and forgotten stories of people and places from the region.

Britain on Film has been launched by the British Film Institute and aims to share films from the past to a new contemporary audience.

The vintage videos were all held in a regional collection - but have been released to share them with a wider audience.

Some of the highlights from the Black Country films include a 1961 promotional film about the Express & Star and a 1963 portrait of West Bromwich Albion, with Bobby Robson being interviewed.

There is also a video from Wolverhampton in 1970s which documents the upheaval in the city as Georgian and Victorian shops made way for flats. The Media Archive for Central England (MACE) has supported the BFI and Britain on Film in the project.

Phil Leach, senior curator at MACE, said: "It's great to be able to preserve these old videos but we also need to be getting things out there for the public to see."

"If you put something online people can watch it again and again, any time. This is a really good way of getting films out there."

Mr Leach said one of his highlights from the Black Country was an 80-year-old film of King George V's Silver Jubilee, which saw a pageant put on at Molineux. There is also a 1904 film showing Wolves playing away at Preston.

The online BFI Player gives everybody in the UK free access to thousands of film and TV titles.

By 2017 10,000 film and TV titles from 1895 to the present day will be digitised.

Newsreels, advertisements, home movies, forgotten TV shows, and films by government departments all offer surprising insights into British life in the 20th century. BFI head curator Robin Baker said: "For 120 years cameras have captured almost every aspect of life in the UK on film, but too often these have been inaccessible to all but the most determined researchers."

"Britain on Film is transforming access to films from the UK's archives and making them available, no matter where you live."

Heather Stewart, BFI creative director, said: "It's vital the UK's film and TV archives - Britain's national collection - can be enjoyed by everyone."

"We have now created a way for the British public to discover and engage with their heritage like never before."

The Nation Youth Orchestra of Great Britain in action before they tackle Mahler at Birmingham Symphony Hall

THE National Youth Orchestra of Great Britain returns to Birmingham for its annual concert as part of its most ambitious summer to date.

Under the baton of Sir Mark Elder, of the Halle Orchestra, the teenagers perform Mahler's epic Symphony No 9 alongside the world premiere performances of Re-greening by Tansy Davies, written especially for NYOGB, at the city's Symphony Hall tomorrow evening (Friday).

The orchestra's young composers will be presenting a free performance of some of their works at the Symphony Hall foyer at 6pm, before the 7.30pm concert. See www.thsh.co.uk or call 0121 780 3333.

Following a two-week residency in Birmingham, the orchestra travels to Aldeburgh, the BBC Proms and Berlin. NYOGB's 14 to 19-year-old members are drawn from across the UK and this year nine of the 163 talented teens hail from the West Midlands. Among them are double bassists Harry Atkinson (Birmingham) and Patrick Phillip (Bridgnorth), violinists Philip Edwards (Stafford) and Madeleine Dawson (B'ham), cellists Joshua Mountford (B'north) and Dominic Marten (B'ham).

Activities in Birmingham included ensembles taking music to the streets and workshops at the University of Birmingham.

Miss is in a bottle...

FREAKS and feathers will surround you at the Carnival of the Bizarre, prepare to be shocked and amazed by a blend of weird variety acts and burlesque from the same people who stunned audiences — and the Britain's Got Talent judges — with notorious touring show The Circus of Horrors.

At Bilston's Robin 2 venue tonight (Thursday) the audience will get close up and personal with some truly bizarre, and sometimes horrifying, performers.

Led by Circus of Horrors undead Ringmaster Doktor Haze, the shows cast of freaky characters can include Captain Dan, the demon dwarf; The Mongolian Laughing Boy; the Human Pincushion; the sword swallowing Hannibal Helmut.

The circus element comes with performers including the girl in the bottle and Anastasia IV the blade walker, fire whirlwind acrobatics from the Voodoo Warriors and a bevy of burlesque beauties. Plus a multitude of shocks and surprises from the most bizarre acts around.

Advance tickets cost £15 or £16 on the door. Call 01902 401211 or see the www.therobin.co.uk website.

Other gigs coming up at the Mount Pleasant venue include: tomorrow, Alice Cooper tribute act Gallus Cooper with Scorpions tribute Scopyons; Saturday, U2-2 recreate Bono and co circa The Joshua Tree; Sunday, Monsters of Rock featuring Black Sabbath tribute Sabbotage; Thursday, veteran San Francisco satirical rockers The Tubes, featuring singer Fee Waybill, make a rare UK appearance.

Dancer to make her last UK performance

A WORLD famous dancer will return to Birmingham Hippodrome for her last ever UK performance.

Promoted to the rank of 'Etoile' by Rudolf Nureyev at the age of 19, the French dancer has decided to retire at the age of 50. Her very final performance will be in Japan in December. See www.birminghamhippodrome.co.uk or call 0844 338 5000.

Punk's not dead, at least for a week

IT'S a punk rock week ahead in Birmingham and the Black Country.

Slam Dunk favourites Don Broco, whose new album Automatic comes out tomorrow, have sold out their gig at Birmingham Institute's Temple venue on Wednesday.

The Digbeth venue hosts San Francisco punk veterans The Avengers on Monday and Aussie hardcore outfit Break Even on Thursday (August 13). That's the same night US outfits A Wilhelm Scream play 02 Academy 3, Teenage Bottlerocket the Slade Rooms, and White Punks On Dope veterans The Tubes play Bilston's Robin 2.

Influential art of Japan on display

AN exhibition at Wolverhampton Art Gallery features images created by 19th century Japanese artist Utagawa Hiroshige.

Hiroshige's Japan: 53 Stations of the Tokaido Road feature a collection of landscapes that the artist was commissioned to create on the new road between the old capital Kyoto and Edo, which became Tokyo.

The woodblock prints, on display at the Lichfield Street gallery until November 21, had an influence on the Impressionists and even today's Manga comic art. It also the first touring exhibition to come to Wolverhampton from Oxford's prestigious Ashmolean Museum.

At all times of day the coastal town looks welcoming

The bedroom at the Tregenna Castle Estate

St Ives blends traditional and modern seaside attractions well

The beautiful view of the Cornish town of St Ives

A beautiful mix of old and new – St Ives welcomes you

REST, relaxation and recuperation.

It's why most go on holiday, is it not? Yes, we all love a bit of action on our breaks every now and then. A sense of fun and adventure. Trying new things.

But, sometimes, just turning the mobile phone off, ignoring the emails and cutting off the outside world is the perfect bit of therapy to recharge those batteries.

In this case, St Ives should be highly considered. A beautiful mix of old and new, it throws its arms open to welcome you in.

For the perfect overview of its quaint little harbour, then the Tregenna Castle Estate is the perfect place to base your visit.

The bay-view rooms offer spectacular views down over the shops, bars and ice-cream parlours that line the old harbour. You can also plan excursions by foot with views down to the beach offering a host of options to choose between. But you don't even have to head down to the sand yet. There's plenty to do just where you are.

By Leigh Sanders

Tired from your long journey down? First of all, head straight for the leisure complex attached to the back of the hotel to unwind.

The indoor heated pool and spa offer somewhere relaxed for families to spend some quality time. There is also a sauna and steam room and a gym.

Squash courts are also available, and the tennis courts out front are a real treat. There are woodland walks and walled gardens to enjoy. But be prepared to tackle some hills. The journey up some of them won't be the most relaxing part of your stay. But when you are ready to hit the town then just walk straight down the hill and let gravity guide you in. You hit Porthminster beach, a calm expanse of golden softness ideal for families. It has all the facilities you would require, and is a short walk from the harbour itself.

Activity

This is still a working port, and you can watch lazily as the fishermen bring in the latest catches you know will be adorning the array of seafood restaurants for you to sample later on. Most of the activity is to be found here, particularly for youngsters. They will want to head straight to Patsea Arcadia – harbour amusements full of fun.

While here, Kudos simply has to be visited. Situated on Fore Street, it is a real Aladdin's cave chocked from floor to ceiling with wonderfully unique items the owner has sourced from trusted collectors around the world. Once the town has been scoured it is worth heading up towards what is known as The Island. A grassy hill behind the harbour, it can be accessed via a series of narrow back streets that house a number of independent art galleries.

Once ascended, you will find the smallest of chapels providing views that will amaze. If you are lucky enough, a pod of dolphins will swim past too to welcome you.

When you have done as much or as little exploring as you like it is time to head back down in to town and sample some of that food. If you like fish and are staying at the Tregenna, then it is worth one last trek back to base to sample The Brasserie.

Exceptional service and delightful food will leave you stuffed and ready for sleep, but not before visiting the hotel bar next door and settling into one of the luxurious sofas adorning the entrance hall.

Jimmy faces a burning issue in the Highlands

What do Septoe and Son, Last of the Summer Wine, The Liver Birds, Up Pompeii, Till Death Do Us Part and Are You Being Served? have in common?

Well, in addition to being among some of the best-loved and most successful sitcoms in the BBC archives, they all started life as episodes of Comedy Playhouse.

The anthology, which aired between 1961 and 1975, featured one-off comedy pilots, with the best-received being turned into full series.

Of course, not every episode went on to be a fondly remembered classic – Shamrot, On the Knocker, or Barnaby Rook and the Exploding Whoopee Cushion, anyone? – but the hit rate was high enough for the BBC to revive the format last year with three more pilots.

And now one of them, Miller's Mountain, has been renamed Mountain Goats and give a six-part run – and some may think that given the Comedy Playhouse track record, it's got a lot to live up.

Luckily, the signs are promising as the new series does have a great cast in its favour, including Sharon Rooney, who is probably best known for her acclaimed performance as troubled Rae in E4's My Mad Fat Diary.

She's certainly enjoying her latest role, especially as it's provided her with a change of pace.

She told Radio Times: "Comedy has been nice to do because My Mad Fat Diary was quite emotional. I don't think I've ever laughed so much on a job. They gave us an outtake video and we're laughing on it the whole time."

Hopefully, the audience will be just as amused. For those who missed the pilot, the series is described by the BBC as "an energetic studio sitcom set around the antics of a ragtag group of Mountain Rescue volunteers. Set in the Highlands, the series takes us from pub to hillside as our ramshackle family try to save walkers, climbers, dogs and, most often, themselves."

In particular, it focuses on the young, enthusiastic, and more than a little naïve Connor (Kevin Mains), who has just joined the team. He's learning under the supposedly watchful eye of Jimmy (Jimmy Chisholm), who is an old hand – although organisation is not his strong point.

Other characters include Bernie (Kathryn Howden), the team's head of operations, and Jules (Rooney), a no-nonsense barmaid – in fact, one of the most striking aspects of the pilot was that for a show about mountain rescue, a surprising amount of the action took place in the pub.

We're promised some location filming in the series proper, so we may get a better sense of the great outdoors.

In this first episode, Connor continues to learn the ropes, but his mum isn't particularly happy about his new career – and no wonder, given that Jimmy proves he can't really be trusted with his own safety after he burns his house down.

Is Connor's first rescue mission going to be finding a new home for his fellow rescuer?

Jimmy Chisholm (left) stars in Mountain Goats, Friday, BBC1, 10.35pm

BEST OF THE REST

Flying to the Ends of the Earth Channel 4, 8pm

Arthur Williams travels to the deserts of northern Australia, the islands of the Coral Sea and the jungles of Papua New Guinea, where flying is the only way in and out. He first visits a couple running a cattle station almost as big as Wales, where helicopters round up thousands of cows in a risky aerial ballet, before flying on to meet the Turner family, who bought their own desert island in the Coral Sea in 1985. Finally, Arthur joins the flying missionaries of Papua, who brave perilous jungle airstrips to bring supplies.

Ben Fogle: New Lives in the Wild Channel 5, 9pm

The ever-affable adventurer's latest series draws to a close with a trip to French Polynesia in the middle of the vast Pacific Ocean, a place rarely explored by humans. But two people who love it there and knows it better than most is 47-year-old Brit Rick and his 33-year-old Slovenian girlfriend Jasna. Unlike previous participants in the series, Rick and Jasna don't live in a shack on dry land – they describe themselves as sea gypsies, who wander the ocean in a tiny sailing boat. Ben learns more about their lifestyle by finding out how to free-dive to drop anchor, preserve the food they catch and how to make wine. He also gets up close and personal with some of the creatures who share the environment with Rick and Jasna.

TUESDAY
Love Your Garden ITV, 8pm

Alan Titchmarsh and the team are in Dorset creating an exciting garden for a young family. His idea for the Drakes is to give them an outdoor space that reflects terminally ill dad Andrew's love of the great outdoors and his passion for working with wood. He opts for a garden with a frontier-land theme that Andrew, wife Rachel and their young son Lucas can enjoy, creating a prairie-inspired back yard of big scale rustic wood structures, agricultural motifs with craftsmanship and the spirit of adventure at its core.

WEDNESDAY
The Great British Bake Off BBC1, 8pm

With the cake week completed, and one of their number already eliminated from the competition, the 11 remaining home bakers must now prove their skill at making biscuits, a task that can be deceptively difficult, and one that has undone many a confident Bake Off contestant in the past. The opening signature challenge this week is to create 24 biscotti, Italian delicacies that must be baked twice to deliver the perfect crisp crunch. Next is Paul Hollywood's technical challenge, in which the contestants tackle Arlettes – labour-intensive, puff pastry-based treats from southwest France. Finally, for the showstopper, the judges demand bespoke edible biscuit boxes, filled with 36 biscuits of different flavours. After all three rounds have concluded, it falls to Mel Giedroyc and Sue Perkins to announce which of the bakers will be asked to leave the tent.

Who Do You Think You Are?, Thursday, BBC1, 9pm

THURSDAY
Who Do You Think You Are? BBC1, 9pm
Every time a new run of the genealogy series is announced, viewers are left wondering who will be featured on it. After all this time and so many editions, some have suggested that the show must be running out of steam and that the celebrities will soon be Z-listers rather than bona fide stars. However, the programme's researchers keep coming up trumps – and if you need proof of that check out the list of luminaries set to grace this, the 12th season. Great British Bake Off star Paul Hollywood (who is the first celeb to appear), model Jerry Hall, Last Tango in Halifax cohorts Derek Jacobi and Anne Reid, polymath Mark Gatiss, actresses Frances de la Tour and Jane Seymour, choirmaster Gareth Malone, journalist Frank Gardner and presenter Anita Rani will all feature.

FRIDAY
Would I Lie to You? BBC1, 8.30pm

No sooner has she left The One Show sofa, the ubiquitous Alex Jones is back, this time on the panel show in which participants attempt to hoodwink their opponents with absurd facts and plausible lies about themselves. It's all in good fun, and host Rob Brydon and team captains David Mitchell and Lee Mack know how to squeeze the maximum amount of laughter from each absurd suggestion.

Leon Brannan, head of cars at Honda UK, said: "Now in its third generation, Jazz continues to evolve its unique blend of quality, compact exterior dimensions and class-leading interior space. And,

"The all-new Jazz signals the fourth of five new and refreshed models for Honda in Europe in 2015, an exciting year in which we're boldly re-energising the brand. The Jazz is a world car that has now sold over five million units since it was introduced in 2001. The greatest strength of Jazz is its broad appeal to different customer segments, and we're confident this latest generation will only broaden that appeal."

At the wheel of Blue Bird

Pendine Sands came alive as spectators watched a commemorative run of the iconic 350hp Sunbeam, on the 90th anniversary of Sir Malcolm Campbell's World Land Speed Record of 150mph.

The National Motor Museum, Beaulieu, marked the anniversary with a demonstration run in the restored Sunbeam with Sir Malcolm's grandson Don Wales (pictured right) at the wheel.

Don, who is also a Land Speed Record holder, said: "I was thrilled to be given this amazing opportunity to sit at the wheel of my grandfather's car back at Pendine where he set his record. It was an honour both to follow in his footsteps and to drive this iconic car on such a special occasion."

"My grandfather (pictured below) was a remarkable man and for us to remember him and honour some of his achievements in this way is very humbling. I really must thank Beaulieu for this opportunity and for all the hard work the restoration team have done on her."

The car was the brainchild of Sunbeam's chief engineer and racing team manager, Louis Coatalen, and was constructed at the company's works in Wolverhampton during 1919 and early 1920. Its power came from a modified 18.322 litre V12 Manitou Arab aero engine, a type used on naval seaplanes.

The Sunbeam, renamed Blue Bird by Campbell, holds three World Land Speed Records, the first achieved by Kenelm Lee Guinness at Brooklands in 1922 with a speed of 133.75mph. Campbell then purchased the car, had it painted in his distinctive colour scheme and in September 1924 achieved a new record speed of 146.16mph at Pendine, raising it the following year to 150.76mph.

Demonstration

Campbell then sold the Sunbeam and it passed through a number of owners and was in a poor condition when purchased by Lord Montagu in 1957, for his ever expanding motor museum. It was restored to working order and when not on display, it was taken to motoring venues in the UK, Europe and as far afield as South Africa. Its last outing was at the British Automobile Racing Club Festival of Motoring at Goodwood in July 1962 when Lord Montagu took it on a 3-lap demonstration run and Donald Campbell did a lap d'Honneur.

During a test fire-up in 1993 to assess the car's condition, disaster struck when a blocked oil way in the engine caused it to seize and 'throw a rod'. For several years after that, the car was on display in the museum with a very visible hole in its engine where the piston and con-rod had exited.

In January 2014, following a complete mechanical rebuild by the National Motor Museum's workshop team over a period of many years, the Sunbeam was fired-up again – the first time it had been heard in public in over 50 years. The following month it was a star of the show at Retromobile, Paris and was also run at the 2014 Goodwood Festival of Speed.

Doug Hill, the National Motor Museum's manager and chief engineer, said: "When we were rebuilding the Sunbeam, I always hoped it would be finished by 2015 so we could run it here today on the 90th anniversary of its World Land Speed Record. I cannot think of a more fitting tribute to Louis Coatalen, the designers, the engineers who built it and the people who developed it during its racing history. I am also indebted to our team of engineers and volunteers who have spent more than 2000 working hours returning it to running condition."

Supporting the run was the 1933 aero-engined Napier Railton Special, which holds the all-time lap record of 143.44mph at Brooklands. The Napier-Railton has its own unique history at Pendine, having been the star (alongside James Mason and Ava Gardner) of the 1951 movie Pandora & The Flying Dutchman. In the film, the car is used for an attempt on the Land Speed Record, for which the action sequences (culminating in the car being driven into the sea to quench an engine fire) were filmed on Pendine Sands during 1950.

NOTICE TO READERS
Please be aware that when purchasing a puppy there are some simple guidelines you can follow to ensure that you are not purchasing from a Puppy Farmer:

1. Try to ensure you visit the puppy whilst it is still with it's Mother
2. Do not arrange to collect a puppy from any other location than that of the breeder.
3. Ensure that you are given any KC documentation, if pedigree. Whilst Midland News Association publications take great care to avoid publication of advertisements from Puppy Farmers we cannot accept any liability should readers purchase from this kind of establishment.

Smith rules out a return for Gerrard in defence

WALSALL manager Dean Smith has ruled out a move for defender Anthony Gerrard.

The Saddlers boss is on the hunt for a new centre-back after James Chambers opted to retire from professional football earlier this month.

Doncaster's Liam Wakefield featured on trial in last week's friendlies against Rushall Olympic and Villa but Smith has decided not to offer him a deal.

Many Saddlers' fans had hoped the boss would instead turn to free agent Gerrard who enjoyed a hugely successful spell at the Bank's Stadium between 2005 and 2009.

But Smith believes a move for the player wouldn't be right for the club.

"I have spoken with Liam and felt he isn't better than what we have already got – we have moved on from that," the boss said.

"Whoever we bring in has got to be better than what we have got so we are still looking for a central defender.

"In terms of Anthony Gerrard I don't think he is one we will go for.

"Anthony has been here before and a lot of people have worked with him here. I think it would be a backwards step for the club.

"It's not that Anthony Gerrard can't play at this level. I just think he has been here before and we want to move forward."

Meanwhile, Smith was delighted with the performance of his players despite watching his team slip to a 2-0 defeat against Premier League Albion.

Goals from Saido Berahino and Brown Ideye, both assisted by James McClean, won it.

Ex-Saddler Westwood joins theYeltz

HALESOWEN Town have continued to add former Football League experience to their squad by securing the signature of ex-Wolves and Walsall defender Chris Westwood.

The 38-year-old central defender, who can also operate at full-back, has enjoyed a distinguished career in the full-time game, winning two League Two promotions with both Peterborough United and Walsall, as well as an FA Trophy medal with Wrexham.

He has most recently been playing at Hednesford Town but adds further experience to John Hill's backline.

The Dudley-born defender began his career at Molineux, making more 250 appearances at Carlisle before two seasons at the Banks's.

Ex-Rushall midfielder Josh Craddock has signed for Stafford Rangers, weeks after agreeing to sign at Hednesford.

Young defender Kyle Morrison and forward Luke Benbow also depart Keys Park.

Injury will keep Bathth out for start of season

WOLVES captain Danny Bathth will miss the start of the season through injury, it has been confirmed.

The 24-year-old is still out with the stress fracture to his left foot that forced him to miss the final two games of last season.

Bathth will begin full training two days after Wolves open their league campaign against Blackburn Rovers at Ewood Park on August 8.

It is likely he won't be back in first-team action during the opening weeks of the season.

Wolves boss Kenny Jackett said of Bathth's injury latest: "He's doing well. His return to full training will be the Monday after the Blackburn game.

"We're still going to have to be careful with it but he'll be in full training then."

Banks's provides development

THE Banks's Stadium is the place to be for youngsters wanting to develop and have a shot at breaking into the first team, according to Saddlers No.2 Richard O'Kelly.

Dean Smith's assistant oversaw a promising display from the club's academy prospects as they ran out comfortable 4-0 winners at non-league Chase-town's The Scholars Ground last week.

Kieron Morris, Zac Thompson, Jordan Sangha and Mazir Kouhyar all scored on a night that the future prospects more than matched the physical approach of their semi-professional opposition and certainly made a good show of themselves.

O'Kelly said: "We sent quite a young squad there and the question was can they handle it physically.

"What we saw is a group of young players who were able to battle physically as well as play great football.

"A new project got under way three years ago with John Whitney (fitness coach) where we would put them on a regime to improve their power and it is paying dividends.

"The youngsters we have are all quicker and stronger for it - the players are really buying into it," he added.

"It was a big investment from the club and it's really helping the players develop physically as well as tactically." The assistant manager believes young players will now look at Walsall as a place to be to hone their footballing skills and develop into a professional.

He said: "We want players to be able to think that they will have a chance at Walsall.

"Whereas maybe somewhere else they will sit on the bench for three or four years before being released.

"We're a developing club. But we also want to be successful.

"There were a few 16-year-olds put into that environment and it's where you can find if they'll sink or swim.

"At the moment they're going to swim."

Saddlers slaughter Scholars

Jamie Smith of the Saddlers tussles with Scholars' Nathan Waite during the 4-0 shutout

Chasetown 0 Walsall 4
A YOUTHFUL Walsall side ran out comfortable winners at Chasetown with four cracking goals.

Kieron Morris, trialist Zac Thompson, Jordan Sangha and Mazir Kouhyar all struck for the Saddlers.

The visitors saw many of their youth team members fly out of the blocks against their Evo-

Stik First Division South hosts. Walsall's bright start was to be rewarded as Morris escaped the attentions of the Scholars defence on the edge of the box and fired in a low shot from 20-yards.

Not long after, Thompson, who has been at Leeds United and Bury, struck a storming half-volley into the top corner from 30-yards.

Sierra Leone-born forward Bakayoko headed straight at John Bateman as the Saddlers should have had another.

As the second-half brought changes, Walsall continued to tighten their grip and had a third through substitute Sangha. Midway through the half the Saddlers added a fourth, Kouhyar this time shooting across Bateman.

Walsall are no pushovers for Baggies

Walsall 0 Albion 2

ALBION needed to call on all their Premier League quality to overcome a determined Walsall side in a pre-season friendly at the Banks's Stadium.

Second half-goals from Saido Berahino and substitute Brown Ideye secured a 2-0 win after Saddler Tom Bradshaw missed a first half penalty.

Walsall boss Dean Smith will be delighted with the way his side matched their Premier League opponents, while Tony Pulis will have been thrilled with the performance of James McClean who filled in at left-back and set up both goals.

The Saddlers lined up in a 3-5-2 formation with Jason Demetriou and Rico Henry operating as wing-backs. There was no place for centre-back Liam Wakefield – the trialist who started Saturday's friendly against Villa.

The Baggies were on the attack inside the first minute with Stephane Sessegnon combining well with McClean before delivering a teasing cross which Adam Chambers hacked clear.

But Walsall soon found their rhythm and they all most opened the scoring after Bradshaw was hauled down on the edge of the box by Claudio Yacob. Reece Flanagan's free-kick went straight into the wall but the ball cannoned back to the midfielder whose second effort sailed inches over the bar.

The Saddlers, with Flanagan and Henry particularly impressive, were on top and they again came close as the half reached the mid-way point.

Bradshaw did well to escape the attentions Olsson to feed Sawyers in the box. The creative schemer then cut the ball back to the on-rushing Baxendale who side-footed wide from 12 yards.

Deadlock

With just over five minutes of the half remaining the Saddlers should have broken the deadlock after Baxendale was tripped inside the box by Gardner.

Bradshaw stepped up to take the resultant spot-kick but his mis-hit shot cannoned off the post with the striker then scuffing the rebound wide.

Both managers made changes at the break with James Morrison replacing Darren Fletcher for Albion. Walsall made four changes with Demetriou,

Bright boy steals the show to give Wolves edge

WOLVES boss Kenny Jackett believes young match-winner Bright Enohakhare is ready for senior football after the 17-year-old's wonder goal at Doncaster.

Jackett's team ended their pre-season campaign on a high by edging a seven-goal thriller at Keepmoat Stadium.

Several fringe players impressed during the victory, giving Jackett a poser as he finalises his team for this Saturday's league kick-off at Blackburn Rovers.

But Enohakhare stole the show with a glorious individual winner, taking on three players before slotting home. Jackett said of the Nigerian teenager: "It was a great individual goal and I'm very pleased with him.

"He looked strong and around the box he's always going very direct.

"He's done very well, out of the young players he physically looks the strongest and going into the Championship you do need to be strong and have power through your team.

"He's had a good pre-season. He's still eligible for our youth team, we'll see what he can do this year but his appetite, his desire, his commitment to win the ball back, the physical nature of his game, does suggest he could do something in senior football this year."

Winger Jordan Graham also got on the scoresheet and Jackett said there were 'horses for courses' options for his squad.

"I think I know where we want to be. I think I know where we want to be as a club as well," he said.

"It's going to be a long season."

Lambert is looking for England recall

NEW Albion forward Rickie Lambert is hoping to follow up his promising start to life at The Hawthorns – with a recall to the England squad.

The 33-year-old, who scored a brace on his debut at Bristol Rovers just hours after signing a contract on Friday, insists he can prove the doubters wrong and add to his 11 caps.

On an England recall, he said: "That is something in the future. I will never give up and with my character and my personality, that's something no-one would expect me to do.

"You just have to believe in yourself and hopefully, if I have a couple of seasons like I did at Southampton there is no reason why I can't get back in there. It is only two years ago I scored 15 and then 13.

"Obviously it is over a year ago but I've just got to get back to that now."

After a tough season at boyhood club LiverpoolLambert is ready to get his career back on track in the Midlands.

Benbow gets signed up by Rushall club

RUSHALL OLYMPIC have completed the signing of prolific forward Luke Benbow from Hednesford Town.

The 23-year-old striker only moved to Keys Park at the beginning of the summer after leaving Stourbridge, where he scored more than 50 goals across three seasons.

But his stay with the Pitmen was a short one after struggling with injuries over the summer. Stafford Rangers were due to welcome Hednesford in the second-leg of the Mike Hughes Memorial Shield.

The visiting National League North outfit held a 2-0 advantage from the first-leg at Keys Park, where Jake Heath and Ahmed Obeng struck.

Hughes' widow, Carol and son, Jason are due to attend.

Boss Smith has plenty of options

BOSS Dean Smith admits he has plenty of options to choose from as Walsall prepare to kick off their League One campaign.

Oldham will be the visitors to the Banks's Stadium on Saturday as the Saddlers bid to make a winning start to the 2015/16 season.

Exactly how Smith's men will line up for it has been cause for debate among fans with the boss experimenting with different formations in pre-season.

And after opting for a 3-5-2 system for the final friendlies against Albion and Luton, Smith may start that way against the Latics.

"The 3-5-2 formation has definitely given me something to think about," he said. "Against Luton the three at the back looked very comfortable."

"But as an attacking outfit I thought we were very good. We kept the ball well and were camped in their half at times. We created a lot of chances. It just shows what an attacking formation it is."

"What's important is that the players go out and believe in it. But they have done that over the last two games."

Smith is now looking forward to the competitive action getting underway, with defender Matt Preston his only minor injury doubt.

Meanwhile, Smith's hunt to improve his squad goes on with Spanish trialist Adrian Pazo featuring against Luton. The former Celta Vigo man started at centre-back but there was no place in the squad for fellow trialist Zac Thompson – a player Smith has admitted he would like to sign. "I thought Pazo did OK against Luton," the boss added.

"It was always going to be tough for him. He has never played three at the back before."

Paddock has his mind on keeping hold of his belt

MIDLANDS title rivals Luke Paddock and Andy Keates saddled up for their battle for the belt with a trip to fight venue Walsall Football Club this week, writes Craig Birch.

The duo were paraded on the pitch at the Banks's Stadium, during half-time of Walsall's 2-0 pre-season friendly defeat to Albion.

And area light welterweight champion Paddock, making the first defence of his crown, thinks it will be a ball when the two touch gloves on Friday September 4. He said: "It's going to be quality, to fight in my home-town is good enough but to fight at my football club is something else."

"This is not just for me, this is for the fans, so I hope everyone on the night just comes along and enjoys the show."

"Cool Hand" and his opponent renew rivalries from their amateur exploits, where Keates had the edge with three wins to Paddock's two in bouts between the pairs.

Tickets are available now priced £30 standard and £40 stage ringside by calling Luke on 07881 376 512.

Former stars in tribute to Tunisia victims

Neil Baldwin and the players observe the silence

FORMER Walsall stars took on the players of football favourite Neil Baldwin for a match in memory of three Saddlers fans killed in the Tunisian massacre.

The match, organised through the Walsall Supporters Trust, was held at Pelsall Villa with the money raised going towards a fund set up in memory of Joel Richards.

The game was organised in honour of 19-year-old Joel, of Wednesbury, his uncle and Sandwell Council worker Adrian Evans, 49, of Bilston and grandfather Patrick Evans, 78, of Wednesbury who were gunned down on the beach in the horrific terror attack. Joel, his uncle and grandfather lost their lives in the attack in the coastal city of Sousse when the attack took place on June 26. Joel's mother Suzanne and his brother Owen, who was the only one of the four holidaymakers to survive, attended the game.

Former players, including Mark Taylor and Andy Reece joined the Walsall Legends team to take on Neil Baldwin FC. The game finished 6-3 to the Walsall Legends. A minute's silence was held before kick-off.

Winger Scott stakes claim with hat-trick

Notts Forest 3 Villa 3

WINGER Scott Sinclair was at his sparkling best for Villa with a hat-trick in their pre-season friendly at Nottingham Forest.

Sinclair, so often unable to pin down a starting place under boss Tim Sherwood, made a strong claim for inclusion in seven days' time.

Villa will kick off their Premier League campaign at new-boys Bournemouth with Sherwood, no doubt, telling them they must defend better.

Sinclair's treble put the claret and blues in control, after Forest striker Dexter Blackstock broke the deadlock inside the first 30 seconds.

There was a glut of late goals what went against the visitors, with strikes from captain Henri Lansbury and Kelvin Wilson snaring a draw.

Jose Angel Crespo and Jordan Ayew were handed their first starts for Villa, while latest signing Jordan Veretout was among the substitutes.

Villa had barely drew breath before Lansbury's defence-splitting pass released Blackstock, who slotted under goalkeeper Mark Bunn.

Villa battled back and equalised in the 21st minute, when Jordan Amavi's ball from the left hand side was headed home by Sinclair.

Villa who took the lead on 52 minutes when substitute Joe Cole slipped in Sinclair, who fired into the roof of the net.

The arrival from Manchester City then completed his hat-trick just after the hour mark.

But Villa were found all at sea when Lansbury twisted and turned on the edge of the box, before slotting past Bunn.

Then Wilson was on hand to level.

Jason promising goals for the fans

FULL-BACK Jason Demetriou has promised Walsall fans he will get among the goals this season.

The 27-year-old, a summer capture from Cypriot outfit Anorthosis Famagusta, has impressed throughout pre-season.

"I've always backed myself to get assists wherever I've played," he said.

"I should be getting a minimum of five in a season and there is no reason why I can't get into double figures. It's a big part of my game getting forward and delivering crosses. And with the forward players we have there is no reason why they shouldn't be finishing them off."

OPTIMISM FOR NEW SEASON

Luton 0 Walsall 1

WITH just five days until the competitive action gets under way, Walsall fans can look forward to the new season with a keen sense of optimism and intrigue.

Oldham will be the visitors to the Banks's Stadium this weekend as two of League One's perennial sides look to kick start their 2015/16 campaigns with a win.

But which players and in what system the Saddlers will line up for that opening clash remains a mystery.

Boss Dean Smith has kept everyone guessing throughout all of pre-season – refusing, at any point, to name his best XI.

The biggest talking point from this latest selection was that Walsall lined up in a 3-5-2 formation for the second game in a row.

The system, used to good affect against Premier League Albion last week, saw Rico Henry and Jason Demetriou continue to operate as wing-backs.

Partner

Up front, Smith again opted to field two strikers with Jordan Cook given the chance to partner Tom Bradshaw.

While at centre-back Paul Downing and the emerging Matt Preston were joined by Spanish trialist Adrian Pazo.

Smith has already confirmed Walsall will be more attacking and entertaining this year, and that intent was on show early against the Hatters who found themselves behind within six minutes.

Bradshaw managed to out-fox the Luton offside trap following a long ball over the top.

Last season's top scorer then showed all his striking instincts to cut inside the last defender and fire past a helpless Mark Tyler from eight yards.

John Still's Hatters, who are among the bookies' favourites to win promotion from League Two, should have pulled level immediately.

Danny Green did well to get to the byline and cut the ball back to the onrushing Cameron Mc-

Striker Jordan Cook battles to get an attempt on goal while, right, centre-back Paul Downing clears Geehan. But despite having the goal at his mercy, the midfielder side footed over the bar when it was easier to score. The game was missing the competitive edge seen in the friendlies against Albion and Villa.

And it wasn't until the stroke of half-time until the Hatters truly threatened again.

Striker Paul Benson looked to place a whipped Green cross into the corner but Neil Etheridge was on hand to produce a sprawling save and push the ball to safety.

The second half started with the Saddlers once again on the front foot and Adam Chambers, Cook and Demetriou all went close with long-range efforts. On the hour, Demetriou twisted and turned his way into the box before cutting the ball back to Kieron Morris who saw a fierce strike beaten away by Tyler.

And after substitute Andy Taylor had galloped down the left flank to force a corner, Chambers saw a half-volley from the resultant kick cleared off the line.

While there were plenty of positives, Smith will be concerned by the team's inability to double their lead while they were on top. While the performance of Pazo, who was steady but unspectacular, means question marks remain over the centre-back area.
